

KARL SAXON – CREATIVE COLOURS PAINTING

As an Architect I am often asked to give references for tradesmen that have undertaken work for my clients and myself. Hence, it is extremely rare that I agree to such a request. However, sometimes a tradesman comes along that has the characteristics and ability of a traditional craftsman.

This is how I view Karl Saxon of Creative Colours Painting. He is a master of his trade. He is thorough, meticulous, energetic and passionate, and above all he understands the process and art of painting and the material of paint itself.

Karl has over the years carried out work for my clients and myself that have been both large and small projects. For all of them there has never been any lowering of standards or professionalism. Each project has received the same attention to detail and quality.

Karl is a rare breed in that he is a tradesman that not only takes pride in each and every project but also he actually delivers the final product to a standard that is not often seen in today's marketplace. He also takes ownership of his work, this is a quality lost amongst the construction industry, in that everyone is looking for the easy option or passing of responsibility.

He has constantly delivered a product that has matched my high expectations and rigorous scrutiny and it is a pleasure to see quality workmanship. This care and detail is reflected in the various awards that he has received from not only his peers but also other members of the construction industry.

I would recommend Karl Saxon and Creative Colours Painting to any of my clients with no hesitation because I am assured that the end product would not disappoint. I wish Karl every success as he forges ahead in establishing Creative Colours Painting as one of the premier painting companies in Western Australia.
